Manager's Corner – February 2026

Well, we made it through the holidays and ready to start our projects for 2026. Fortunately, most of the large projects have been completed. As a point of information, when the temperature outside gets to 65 or lower and will stay that way for several days, we shut the heater off to the pool. We will monitor the forecasts and when temperatures rise, we will turn the heater back on. It will take a day or so for the water to heat up so please be patient.

Excerpt from Rules and Regulations concerning guests:

Paragraph 2- Guests, subparagraph (a & b): Visitors are welcome, provided they adhere to our Rules and Regulations. Lessees are responsible for their guests' actions. Therefore, they should familiarize their guests with the Rules and Regulations. Individual guests or families staying more than seven (7) consecutive days are required to be registered with Association.

a) Individual guests and/or families staying more than thirty (30) consecutive or cumulative days in one calendar year will be considered an occupant and shall abide by the rules stated in Article 1 "ADMISSION".

February Fun Facts

February comes from the Latin word februa, which means "to cleanse."

It was named after Februalia, the Roman festival of purification, which was a month-long festival of purification and atonement that took place this time of year.

February's Birth Flower

Even though so many roses are sold during February due to Valentine's Day, the violet and the primrose are the symbolic flowers.

- The violet signifies watchfulness, loyalty, and faithfulness. Give a violet to someone to let them know that you'll always be there for them.
- The primrose lets someone know that you can't live without them.

February's Birthstone

Like the violet, February's birthstone is a purple color. It's the beautiful amethyst.

- This gem is a form of quartz; it can range from a pale lilac color to a deep, rich purple.
- The name is based on a Greek myth that speaks of a nymph named Amethyst who was inadvertently turned into white stone; in remorse, the Greek god Bacchus poured wine over her to turn her a beautiful purple.
- The amethyst was thought to prevent intoxication and keep its wearer thinking sharply. It was worn by English royalty in the Middle Ages.

The Cookie exchange was a big success!! Over 20 women participated and Charlie! We are already planning for next year! Just so you know, men can bake, too!!!

We would like to give a big shout out to Debra YaYa for taking the time to deliver all our Christmas cards. It's so exciting to get so many of them.

We would like to thank Jayne Barnes and Sue Lyons for chairing the Christmas dinner, it was delicious and everyone sang beautifully for their meal. Congratulations to the door prize winners and Ugly Sweater contest. It was decided that next year it would be ugly tee shirt and tie contest. So, if you see one throughout the year snatch it up!

We would like to thank MJ and Linda for chairing the New Year's Eve Dance. Larry's band was a huge success!! Thank you for all that helped.

Thank you to Brien and all the men that put on our Saturday Breakfast!!! For $3.00 it's the best around!! Remember, this is for everyone, not just men. We changed the name to Saturday Breakfast put on by the Men of Tarpon Shores... Please get your ticket from Brien and join us for Breakfast.

WHY THE SUPER BOWL HALFTIME SHOW IS SO VALUABLE

The Super Bowl halftime show has become one of the most valuable and influential entertainment platforms in the world. What began as a brief intermission featuring marching bands and simple pageantry has evolved into a global cultural event that rivals the football game itself. Its value lies not only in its massive audience but also in its power to shape music, advertising, and shared cultural moments.

First and foremost, the halftime show's value comes from its unparalleled reach. The Super Bowl is one of the most-watched television broadcasts each year, regularly drawing more than 100 million viewers in the United States alone, with millions more tuning in worldwide. Few stages offer artists instant access to such a vast and diverse audience. For performers, appearing at halftime is equivalent to a global marketing campaign compressed into about 13 minutes. Even artists who are already household names benefit from renewed visibility, while emerging or resurging performers can experience career-defining exposure.

This exposure translates directly into measurable economic impact. In the days following a halftime performance, artists typically see dramatic spikes in streaming numbers, digital downloads, and social media followers. Albums often re-enter the charts, tour ticket sales increase, and brand partnerships expand. Notably, performers are not paid a traditional appearance fee, yet artists routinely invest heavily in production costs because the long-term return far outweighs the upfront expense. The halftime show has become one of the clearest examples of how visibility and cultural relevance can be more valuable than immediate compensation.

Beyond individual performers, the halftime show holds immense value for the NFL and its broadcast partners. It broadens the Super Bowl's appeal beyond sports fans, drawing in viewers who may be more interested in music, pop culture, or spectacle than football. This expanded audience boosts advertising value, allowing networks to charge premium rates for commercials and sponsorships. The halftime show also reinforces the Super Bowl's reputation as a must-watch event, ensuring its dominance in an increasingly fragmented media landscape.

Culturally, the halftime show functions as a shared national—and often global—experience. In an era when entertainment is typically consumed on-demand and in isolation, the halftime show brings millions of people together in real time. Performances spark conversations across social media, workplaces, and households, creating moments that are debated, celebrated, and remembered for years. Iconic halftime shows become cultural touchstones, reflecting shifts in musical tastes, fashion, technology, and social attitudes.

The show's value also lies in its storytelling potential. Many halftime performances are carefully crafted narratives that honor musical legacies, celebrate diversity, or highlight cultural and regional influences. Artists use the platform to showcase innovation, collaboration, and visual artistry on a massive scale. These performances often set new standards for live production, influencing concerts, award shows, and televised events long after the Super Bowl ends.

Ultimately, the Super Bowl halftime show is valuable because it sits at the intersection of sports, entertainment, commerce, and culture. It transforms a mid-game break into a moment of global attention, turning music into an event and an event into history. In just a few minutes, the halftime show delivers lasting impact—proving that its true worth extends far beyond the football field.
